NOTLEY MAKES FRIENDS-AND VOTES

David Notley, candidate for supervisor, a resident of the Fifth district, was introduced last night to the voters of the Fourth at the Republican luncheon. To many of those present Notley was introduced and spoke for the first time. He made an excellent impression; his talk was brief but to the point and he gave the effect of a man sincerely devoted to the interests of his city and his country. Notley is not one of the men in politics for revenue only; a life of hard work has brought him to the point of financial independence; and he cherishes the praiseworthy ambition of every American citizen to do something for his community.

The STAR-BULLETIN is glad that the Fifth district candidate made such an excellent impression last night, for in a way his appearance was at a critical time. The Fifth district has felt that the Fourth should vote for Notley, that he represents a very large percentage of the electorate which will not be represented on the board if he is defeated. But Mr. Notley made many friends last night and will continue to make them. To the charge raised by a newspaper that he is under guardianship, he made answer clearly, completely and with credit to himself. He told just why the modest competence left him by his father had been placed in trust—placed in trust by Notley himself.

The STAR-BULLETIN recognizes now, as it has recognized throughout the campaign, that many Fourth district voters hesitated to support Notley because they did not know him and were unwilling to trust the important affairs of the city to a man they did not know. And this paper is pleased to know that many Fourth district voters who met Notley last night and heard his modest but clean-cut little speech feel that he is entitled to just as strong support in the Fourth district as the Fourth is asking from the loyal voters of the Fifth.

SHALL HAWAII REPUDIATE THE SUGAR TARIFF?

The STAR-BULLETIN discussed yesterday some of the personal traits of L. L. McCandless which make him a candidate for delegate to Congress that the voters of this territory cannot afford to support. These traits may well be summed up in the words of a personal friend of the Democratic boss, a man who has been wavering between McCandless and Kuhio. Commenting on McCandless, he said:

"Link has no adequate conception of the delicacy of the position; he has no conception of the kind of man that should represent this territory in Congress. He is actuated not by principles or purpose but by a mania for office."

Outside of the personal characteristics involved, which this paper has discussed with reluctance and not until Mr. McCandless in his campaign speeches began to indulge in assertions of the most foolish kind with the evident intention of deceiving the voters on questions of national politics,—outside of the personal characteristics, we repeat, of the Democratic candidate, it would be a tactical mistake of the most serious kind to send a Democrat to Congress at this crisis in the sugar tariff. The Republican policy of protection, open to criticism in certain isolated cases though it may be, is the policy that has built up Hawaii, that has filled the dinner-palls of the workingmen here, that has paid the salaries of the clerks and has given the territory every substantial public improvement since Hawaii became part of the United States. The Republican party has been the all-watchful guardian of Hawaii's growth and prosperity. To send a Democrat to Congress, when the Republican party is fighting for its great principles of protection for American industry, would be as basely ungrateful as the act of the dog which bites the hand that feeds it. Hawaii's very industrial life depends upon protection for sugar. What kind of voters are those who would send to Congress a member of the party which is attempting right at this time to force a free-sugar bill through the house, the senate and past the president?

There are those who say that to return Kuhio to Congress will be a slap at the administration, because of the controversy the delegate brought on. But there is another side to this. The controversy is ended; Delegate Kuhio has not taken it into his fall campaign; he has rested his case with Secretary Fisher; and the investigation brought Kuhio and the governor closer than they have been for years, and how much worse is the slap at a Republican administration of sending to Congress a Democrat!

Kuhio's fight on Frear will not be renewed, it is safe to say. The reappointment is certain. The delegate's points were made when Fisher came here and began his probe.

Indeed, it is common knowledge that behind much of the attack on Frear was the animosity of two Democratic attorneys, one of them, W. A. Kinney, for years the paid attorney of the planters' association. But at any rate the controversy is over, and Hawaii is sincerely glad of it. It will only be renewed if the Democratic attorneys who stirred up so much of the bitterness before again attempt to discredit a fine Republican administration.

These are some of the reasons why Republicans cannot afford to support McCandless, why voters of Hawaii, irrespective of their party affiliations, cannot afford to support McCandless.

Repudiation of protection at this time would be worse than foolish, it would be childish; it would be worse than ungrateful, it would be traitorous; it would be worse than dangerous, it would be suicidal.

Supervisor William H. McClellan is asking re-election and pointing to his record in the past. It is not much of a record. He has never been an exponent of progressive legislation on the board, and his last few months in office have been marked by apparent willingness to play in with the Murray element in order to secure what support that element could give him. Those who have followed McClellan's career as a supervisor will realize also that he has seemed almost invariably willing to back up anything that Mayor Fern advocated, irrespective of the merits of Fern's advocacy. Lester Petrie would be far more desirable on the board than McClellan, who is carrying water on one shoulder for Republican politicians and on the other for Democratic politicians.

Russia's relentless plans to control the destinies of the far east are revealed in reports of Russian domination of Vladivostok. The Chinese consul at Vladivostok telegraphed to Peking on September 15 complaining that the Russians have issued an order that all Chinese must leave Vladivostok. The Chinese consul pointed out that there are ten thousand Chinese subjects in Vladivostok and their forced departure within a week will cause them considerable inconvenience and much loss. He states that he has visited the Russian authorities with a view to securing a modification of the rigorous order which has been issued but that they have paid no attention to his request.

The Australian fight promoter who canceled the bouts of Champion Jack Johnson because the latter's escapade with a white girl is offensive to Australians deserves the thanks of clean sport-lovers the world over. There have been boxers who were a credit to the game and whose personalities rose above what at best is not an ennobling profession. Johnson is not one of them. The praise and fulsome flattery he has received is a disgrace to sportdom, and he should long ago have been taught that ability to knock out an opponent gives him no privileges of conduct outside the prize-ring.

Speaking of straw votes, the Oriental papers received by the last mail from Japan give the following account of balloting in various sections of Yokohama: "Mr. E. W. Clement, who has made a canvass of U. S. citizens at Karuizawa, Gotemba and Sendai on the question of their preference for president of the United States, makes the following report: Wilson and Marshall, 122; Roosevelt and Johnson, 35; Chapin and Watkins, 10; Taft and Sherman, 4. Chafin and Watkins, 10; Taft and Sherman, 4. were cast by Republicans."

That Republican legislative ticket in the Fifth district looks strong and both on experience and ability should be sent to the house.

Roosevelt's rapid improvement brings the assurance that Gov. Wilson will soon be at liberty to go campaigning again.

The crop of political hopes appears to be about the only one injured by rain.

The Mahuka site case again! Sounds like the echo of a long-forgotten past.

War in the Balkans is nothing to war on the Leilehua plains.

LETTERS ON TIMELY TOPICS

HAWAII FOOLISH TO HEED DEMOCRATS.

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.
Sir:—As the soapbox is occupied every day by speakers of different political faith, and, besides, I couldn't say anything if I had the chance to mount the box, I am going to again say a few words through your paper to the young men who are about to cast their first vote, always bearing in mind that we in Hawaii have little to say in the way of electing a president, still, there is a chance that good seed may be scattered and take root in the young voter.

What a man receives in the way of compensation for what he has to sell, be it brains, labor or produce, is considered his income, that which keeps body and soul together, not only of himself but of those he loves and cherishes in his little home. The only way he can protect that income, no matter how small or how large it may be, is by a system of protection that is offered by the principles that go to make up the Republican party, and which maintains a Protective Tariff on foreign-made goods. That protective arm that guards your interests, your income, your prosperity, your home and all in it that you love is in danger of being pulled down, and will be pulled down if the Democrats gain the day on the 5th of next month.

Twenty years ago, beyond the recollection of the younger voter of today, the country elected a Democratic president and there was immediately rushed into effect a measure known as the Wilson bill. It did just what the Republicans said it would do, and warned the voters against, and that was to close down the factories of the country by the hundreds and opened up the soup-houses throughout all the big cities of the states so that the people should not starve. Now, the Democrats want to do the same thing again. There is danger ahead if you do not look well to your way of voting.

You frequently see the following marked on goods, "Made in Germany" or "Made in France". At a glance that does not mean much to you or anybody of the ordinary mind for such things. But let me tell you what it means. It means that the goods so marked were made by farm laborers on rainy days when they could not work on the farms, at wages that hardly keep them in good health. It means that it is made by little children after school hours. It means that the tiny tots, after having been in school from early morning go direct to the factories and work until half past 6 in the evening, and are paid four and one-half cents to seven cents for six hours' work. It means that whole families are jammed into small rooms like sardines, and are working like mad to keep the breath of life in their bodies with the starvation wages that are paid them for the work on garments. That's what "Made in Germany" means. If the Democrats are successful at the coming election and although we have no voice in Wilson's election, we will feel the effect here as strongly as if this were a state and had cast every vote for him. It will mean here, as well as on the mainland, that all the goods now manufactured by our strong, willing, young American manhood, the fathers of the coming generation, will be duplicated and quickly displaced by goods "Made in Germany" by child labor. How do you like the prospect, you young voter?

The manufacturers of the country are certainly not going to support a party that will pull down the bars that keep their factories running and making money for them, and it stands to reason that anything that will affect the manufacturer will certainly affect the wage-earner. Do you, young voter, want your wages cut from fifteen dollars a week to seven dollars a week for the privilege of buying a twenty-dollar suit of clothes for fourteen dollars?

"Down with the Protective Tariff, and Down with the Highest Wages the wage-earners of any country ever received! Down with the Best Markets the Farmer ever hauled his produce to! Down with the Home Production of everything made in this country and makes it prosperous! Down with everything that Makes Life Worth Living in America!"

That should be the platform on which the Democrats are asking you, young voter, for your vote. Are you going to give it to them? If it hits you as about the right thing to do you can do it, and get along for a while without your usual wages, but you hear me, it won't take four years to convince you that you had a hand in helping to sticking it into your own growing prosperity and breaking it off.

AMERICAN VOTER.

The hearing of the John Gomes Henriques murder case was continued by Circuit Judge Whitney today to next Monday morning. The juror whose illness has delayed the case all this week, is said to be improving slowly, and is expected to be able to resume duty by that date.

True bills, indicting John Silva on a statutory charge and Han Young on a charge of manslaughter, were returned to Circuit Judge Cooper yesterday afternoon in a partial report by the Territorial grand jury.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

A. M. BROWN—The maneuvers are most interesting. James Wilder and myself had two fine days of it down with the troops and their work is remarkable. Both armies are doing splendid work in the field and the conduct of the camps is faultless.

PERSONALITIES

DR. VICTOR S. CLARK, commissioner of immigration, is reported as having gone to Austro-Hungary in his hunt after immigrant laborers.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES LYLE, 972 Spencer avenue, attain the fifty-eighth anniversary of their marriage today. They were married at Mystic, Conn., on Oct. 24, 1854, and they have been residents of Honolulu for over thirty years. Seven children, living, of the venerable couple are scattered here and on the mainland, and they have many grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

MISS BETTY DEVEREAUX, member of the Ferris Hartman Company, which was recently in Honolulu, is reported by the Japan Times to have narrowly escaped serious injury in Tokio recently. Jumping out of the way of a frightened horse, the puller of the kuruma in which she was riding threw her directly in front of a street-car, which caught her and dragged her several feet. Beyond a few painful bruises she escaped severe injury.

Y. W. C. A. NEWS AND NOTES.

Through the kindness of one interested in the work that the association is doing, an excellent croquet set has been furnished for the Homestead.

The regular vesper services will be held at the Homestead, King street, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Spencer Bowen will be the leader and special music has been arranged. It has already been stated that these Sunday meetings have been most helpful.
